Lower Lands of Mississippi Were Flooded Today by River Pouring Through Break in Levee.

Greenville, Miss., April 18.—Flood waters are rushing through the widening gap in the Mississippi river levee near the town of Beulah, Mississippi and are spreading rapidly over the fertile lands of the delta today.

Practically the southern half of the Bolivar county is inundated, and before it flows back the Mississippi will flood the counties of Sunflower, Washington, Sharkey and Itawamba, comprising some of the richest cotton lands in the world.

More Details. Memphis, April 18.—The break in the main line levee on the Mississippi, four miles below Rosedale, Miss., and another on the Arkansas river, added 25,000 persons to the list of flood sufferers in southern Arkansas, northern Louisiana and northwestern Mississippi, the flood inundating an area of rich cotton country almost as large as the New England states.

Plight Bad. The plight of thousands of homeless people is pitiable. Hundreds are marooned in isolated places. Many have been without food for days and scores are suffering from want of clothing.

Want Aid. Urgent appeals from more than 8,000 persons has been received at Vicksburg where a camp will be established at once under the protection of the Mississippi National Guard.

Railroads Blocked. Railroads are all out of commission in the inundated sections and what ever supplies are collected can be distributed by boat.

Search for Refugees. Greenville, Miss., April 18.—Bolt, Dantoney, Beulah, Cleveland, Pace, Shaw Choctaw, Leland and Rolling Fork are the larger towns directly in the path of the overflow. Gasoline launches were sent from this city and Rosedale early today to begin an exploration of the inundated territory in search of refugees. If any lives are lost the number will be small, as preparations for flight had been made at all the important towns. The crisis in the levee occurred late last night on the Hughes plantation in Bolivar county, four miles south of Beulah and about forty miles north of Greenville. When the embankment gave way a hundred and fifty feet of the earthworks collapsed. This morning the gap is almost one thousand feet wide.

ROOSEVELT IS USING LOTS OF MONEY IN HIS CAMPAIGN. Washington, April 18.—Director McKinley of the national Taft bureau today issued a statement calling attention to the alleged use of money in the Roosevelt campaign.

"The lavish expenditure of money in this campaign by the backers of former President Roosevelt," says the statement, "has led to the question being raised: were the victories of Roosevelt in Pennsylvania and Oklahoma due to a 'great popular demand' for his re-nomination, or to the use of money?"

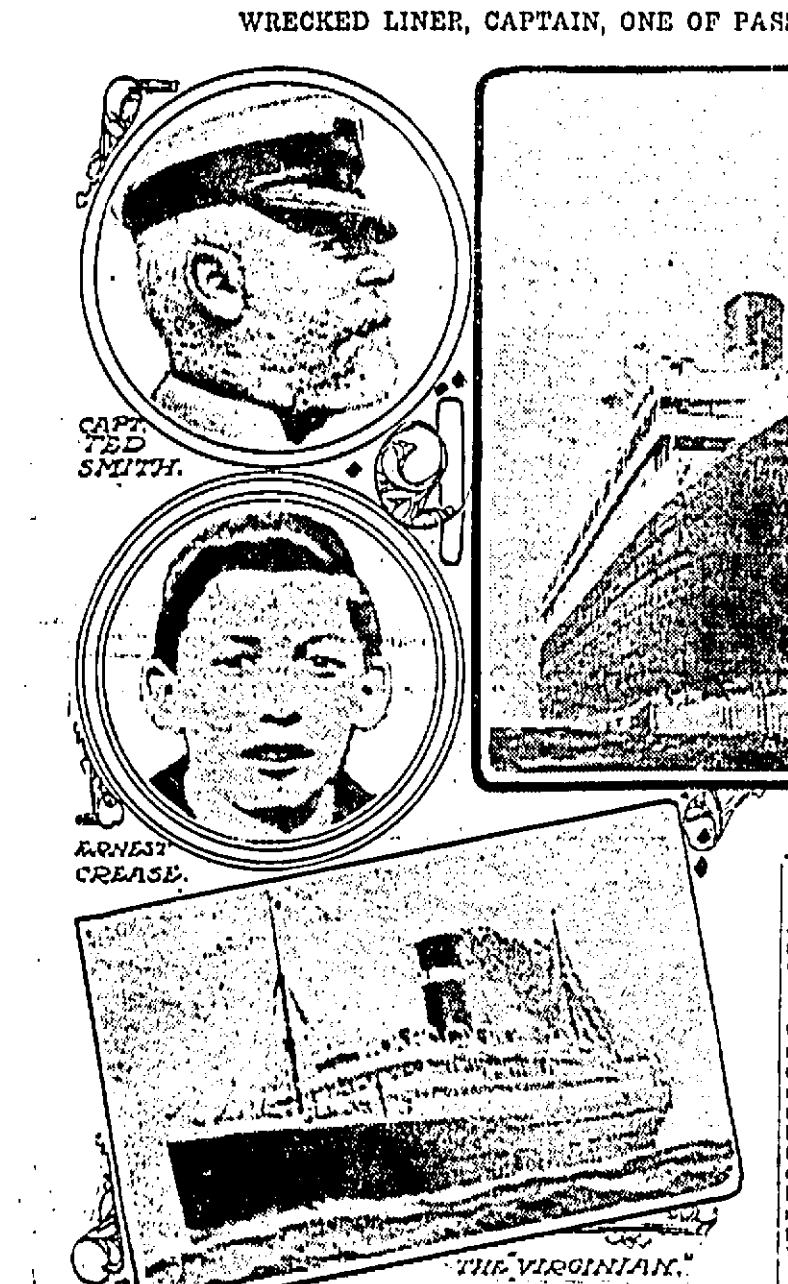

ROOSEVELT CONTINUES TO MISREPRESENT TAFT. Auburn, Neb., April 18.—Roosevelt in a speech today after charging that President Taft had intruded his fate to Senator Lorimer, Senator Penrose, Senator Gallinger and others whom he characterized as opposed to the rule of the people.

"When I was president I saw all those men. I consulted with them but I did not let them be my masters. Whenever there was a line up between them and the people I was against them."

The Colonel brought a laugh from the crowd with an upgrum. He was speaking on the "Silly Stocking Whisk," who, he said, were against him. He said, "The silly stocking. If he is a game man, is just as good as if he did not wear any socks at all."

the White Star offices it is probable that the number of dead totals 1212.

No Details. The Carpathia is now in a good working wireless zone for numbers of private messages from survivors and to officials of the steamship line are constantly received during the morning but no word came to the repeated request for details of the accident.

Stop Messages. The cruisers Chester and Salem and the government wireless station on shore stopped sending messages that the Carpathia might have an interrupted field for sending news.

Thirteen Life Boats. The Carpathia has sent ashore the names of one hundred and twenty-five third class passengers and has requested that the White Star Line officials send six officers and fourteen sailors and two tons to take charge of the thirteen Titanic life boats at quarantine. This would indicate that only thirteen life boats had been found available for rescue work instead of twenty as had been approximated before.

Hops Abandoned. All hope has been given up that Colonel John Jacob Astor, leader Strauss, Benjamin Guggenheim, Geo. H. Widener, Maj. Archibald Butt, military aide to President Taft or Henry H. Harris the theatrical manager have been rescued. Chas. M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Railway has been saved.

Not on Board. The Carpathia wireless operator sent word this morning that Colonel Astor was not on board the Carpathia and he did not know whether Benjamin Guggenheim or Major Butt were aboard.

No Answer. The scout Salem asked for information regarding Major Butt but the Carpathia gave no answer. The Salem sent ashore the following message: "I can read the Carpathia but she can read no business from me."

Is Returning. The cruiser Chester has informed the navy department by wireless that having sent the list of survivors on board the conference and would empower the latter to consider "regulations for an international system of reporting and disseminating information relating to aids and perils to navigation."

Laws Strong. Chairman Alexander was emphatic today in his declaration that the present laws and maritime regulations of the U. S. if properly enforced are strong enough to compel an adequate number of life boats on vessels entering or leaving U. S. ports. Representative Sulzer of New York also opposed an investigation. "It is only throwing dust in the people's eyes," he said. "The matter was fully gone into when the Titanic burned in New York several years ago."

Makes Them Liable. "What we want is to make steamship owners criminally liable for failing to properly equip their vessels, make it a felony and send those criminally negligent steamship men to jail and we will have no more of these disasters."

The Total List. London, April 18.—The actual number of passengers and crew on board the Titanic at the time of the disaster was 2208 according to Sidney Boston president of the board of trade, in reply to a question in the house of commons this afternoon.

PROMINENT CITIZEN

DIED EARLY TODAY

John Fitzgerald, Pioneer Resident of Janesville, Passed Away at His Home on Prospect Ave.

After an illness of about five weeks' duration, John Fitzgerald, pioneer resident of Janesville and for many years one of the most highly respected of its citizens, passed away at 1:25 o'clock this morning at his home, 838 Prospect avenue. Mr. Fitzgerald's demise was brought on by a general breakdown due to his advanced age. John Fitzgerald was born March 22, 1827, in County Mayo, Ireland. His parents came to this country while he was a child, settling in New York state. When he was twenty years of age, he left the Empire state, coming west and settling in Janesville, which has since been his residence. In the early fifties, he with a party of friends started the days when for Pike's Peak, during the days when the "gold craze" was calling thousands of people to the Pike's Peak country. Mr. Fitzgerald and his party got as far as the Missouri river on the expedition when they met discouraged travelers returning from the Pike's Peak region, so they decided to return to Janesville.

For many years Mr. Fitzgerald was an associate of the late John Watson in contracting work. Later he engaged in the ice business, farming and agricultural work were at all times interesting to him, and as a farmer he was as successful as in his other business enterprises. Coming to Janesville when the city was but a village in the wilderness, Mr. Fitzgerald took a great interest in its growth and development. In his quiet, unassuming way, he was an influential man in the community. Mr. Fitzgerald was married September 26, 1886, to Mrs. Mary E. Coy, who survives him. No children were born to them, but to the four children of his wife by an earlier marriage he has been a model step-father and they mourn his loss as sincerely as that of a father. They are: Mrs. W. A. Rossow, Beloit; Mrs. Charles Decker, Harmony; George E. Coy, Harmony; and J. H. Coy, Chicago. Upright and straightforward in character, conservative and honest in his dealings with all, Mr. Fitzgerald was beloved by all who knew him, and his loss will be deeply mourned by a large circle of friends.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at St. Patrick's church and interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery. Announcement of the hour of the funeral will be made later.

COAL ROAD RUMOR IS NOT CONFIRMED

Branch from Davis Junction to Steward, improbable—Howe is Better

Several long articles in the Chicago papers lately have been written on the proposed new road which the St. Paul was going to build from Davis Junction to Steward where it would connect with its own line. Officials of the road deny any knowledge of such a branch and those who know claim that there is no such plan in the minds of the owners. The purpose of such a road would be to furnish a direct connection with the coal fields on their own line where they now have to ship it over the Rockwell & Southern. Although not officially stated it is thought that it is not probable that a new branch will be constructed to the coal supply fields but not from Davis Junction as reported, how being more practical as a starting point.

In an article written in Davis Junction and printed in the Examiner the desirability of the place as a terminal was made clear in a very precise though somewhat magnified statement. A long list of the men employed there was printed when most of the railroad men know that less than half a dozen are usually able to be kept busy. Taking into consideration the value of the places it is probable that Howe will be chosen by the officials of the road.

Several engines are kept ready for an emergency all night and this morning after the snow began to fall. No trouble was caused by the fall of snow and no extra were needed.

HAVE BUSY MORNING IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Two Telephone Thieves and Six Drunks Given Jail Sentences. —Twenty-six Lodged at Station.

Nine men were arraigned before Judge Fifield at the morning session of the municipal court, and eight of them were given jail sentences, none of them being able to pay fines where offered as alternative sentences.

Two of those arraigned were James Norton and Charles Zimmerman, arrested yesterday morning while in the act of stealing several pounds of telephone cable. Both pleaded guilty to the charge and were given a sentence of fifteen days imprisonment. Norton pleaded intoxication as an excuse for his act and at first said he did not steal the cable but found it. Chief Appleby, however, informed the judge that Norton obtained a hackway and sawed off a length of cable from the reel.

When arrested yesterday Norton gave his name as "Melvin." Zimmerman admitted being with him but denied taking the cable. Norton said his home was in Clinton, Iowa, and Zimmerman claimed (giving as his home) "They had been working at odd jobs since their arrival here the first of the week."

The six drunks given sentences were George Kennedy, a well dressed young man from Rockford, four days; Ben Dixon, eight days; Frank Burns, Joseph Meyers and John White, five days each; Ed, Boylan, five days. Meyers, Burns and White were arrested yesterday morning near the ice house after an ineffectual attempt to escape. The police were called to that vicinity by a telephone message that the men were fighting. They had been assisting a woman on South Main street to some home cleaning, such as pounding rugs. George Owen was discharged on his promise to leave town and go to work at once on the farm where he said he was promised a job.

SAN FRANCISCO OBSERVES EARTHQUAKE ANNIVERSARY

Flags Fly From Private and Public Buildings in Celebration of Recovery From Catastrophe.

San Francisco, April 18.—Flags were displayed on public and private buildings throughout San Francisco today to mark the anniversary of the great earthquake and fire and celebration of the complete recovery of the city from the dire effects of the double catastrophe. The earthquake occurred six years ago today and in the shock and the fire that ensued four hundred and fifty-two lives were lost and property valued at upwards of $100,000,000 was destroyed.

MEASURING EARTH FOR STEEL KING

Dr. Louis A. Bauer.
If Andrew Carnegie had not retired there might be some significance in the fact that under the direction of the institution which he endowed, the earth is to be for the first time measured accurately. It is stated, however, that he is not intending to buy it, and is not planning to plant any part of the globe. Dr. Louis A. Bauer is the scientist in charge of the work of measuring the earth for the Carnegie Institution. He has just returned to Washington after spending nearly two and one-half years traveling around the globe on board the famous non-magnetic ship, the "Carnegie." The absence of magnetic metals on board the ship makes possible the extremely accurate observations which will be made when completed to rectify errors on the mariners' chart.

Mrs. Wm. Hemming, 281 Morris St., Fond du Lac, Wis., tells how Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cured her. "I suffered with a very severe cold," she writes, "but after taking Foley's Honey and Tar Compound my cold got better, and I also gave it to my daughter with the same good results. I am glad to recommend it to all people who suffer with coughs and colds." Hadger Drug Co.

He says: "Several years ago I wrote you of my remarkable cure by the use of Foley Kidney Pills. One of the worst features of my trouble was sleeplessness. Now to show the lasting benefit of Foley Kidney Pills, after all this time I have had no return of the kidney trouble and I sleep soundly. I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to lots of people who report the great good they do them." Badger Drug Co.

Exigencies of Art.

When Richard Mansfield was rehearsing the musical scene in Beau Brummel, the end of the music left him with one foot suspended in mid-air. Poised on the other foot, the actor burst into explosive anger, demanding in no uncertain tone of voice: "Give me a chord to put my foot down on!" The musicians jumped to their instruments, and, to a grand finale, Mr. Mansfield planted his foot on the stage.

DAN MCCARTY.

The Harvard variety crew is trying out the new shell designed by C. H. Crane, '94. It is so constructed as to offer less surface to the water, thereby decreasing the amount of friction. The seating is the same as of old. Its chief characteristic is a short stern, which has tended to make it less steady. Some of the members of the crew think that when they become more accustomed to it, it will have a decided advantage in speed over the old design.

Cornell's Athletic association has announced that it has completed a contract with Daniel Field to assist in coaching the football team next fall. Field will have particular charge of the candidates for line. Albert Shurpe, the Yale man, who is to be in charge of football at Cornell, is said to be particularly pleased with the prospect of having Field back.

The International League will have two hundred players enrolled in the various clubs this summer.

Stange, of Detroit, is another catcher who says he will try to equal McGuire's record of catching every game in the series.

Bransfield, the former Pittsburgh and Philadelphia first baseman, will play that position for the Louisville team this summer and act as captain.

Ready for Boston Marathon.
Boston, Mass., April 18.—Interest in the sixteenth annual American Marathon race, to be conducted tomorrow under the auspices of the Boston Athletic association, has risen to a noticeable extent with the near approach of the date for the race. This year's contest will be the official try-out in the East for the Olympic Marathon team, and as a natural consequence the number of entries is larger than ever before. The entries come from many points in New England, New York and eastern Canada.

South Atlantic League Is Off.
Jacksonville, Fla., April 18.—With a circuit unchanged from last year the South Atlantic League started its pennant race today with the preliminary promise of a successful season. All of the teams are reported in good shape. Jacksonville, Macon and Savannah have new managers. In the initial contests the Columbus team plays in Macon, Columbia in Albany and Savannah in Jacksonville. A schedule of 120 games will be played during the season.

The storm that was in the South-eastern states yesterday has moved rapidly northward and is now passing into the St. Lawrence valley. It has been attended by rain throughout the eastern half of the country, and by snow in the upper Lake region. The heaviest precipitation was at Grand Haven, Mich., where 1.24 inches of rain and melted snow fell during the past 24 hours. The snow and winds in this vicinity last night were due entirely to this disturbance. An area of high atmospheric pressure occupies the region of the Great Plains, where it is accompanied by clear, frosty weather. West of the Rockies the barometer is low, and the weather unsettled and showery. In this vicinity the weather will be fair tonight and Friday. The temperature will probably fall to about the freezing point Friday morning.

YOUNG JOAN OF ARC LEADS STRIKERS

Elizabeth Bering.

Throughout the Parsane, N. J., strikes, a young girl has been hailed by the strikers as 'Our Joan of Arc,' for she has stood by them throughout their fight. Her influence has been an important factor in inciting the men to riot, and she is more feared by the citizens and police than any other individual.

Force of Habit.

There is a story of a telephone girl in a big office who went to a doctor with a complaint that her nerves were out of order. "I have got to such a pitch," said she, "that when I hang down to say my prayers at night I begin with 'Are you there?'"

IS TROLLEY LEAGUE NOW A POSSIBILITY?

Manager Bubser of Rockford Still Interested in Organizing Eight City League.

Talk concerning an eight city trolley league is still in the air and agitation centering in Detroit and Rockford is strongly in favor of such an organization with Saturday and Sunday games scheduled throughout the summer season. The cities named by Manager George Bubser of the Rockford club of the state league who has been looking over the ground are: Detroit, Elgin, Aurora, Freeport, Marenco, Delvidero, Rockford and Janesville.

Interest in a Janesville club has been on the wane up to the present time this season, but there is still a possibility that some one may be found to take up the matter of organizing a local club providing the trolley league became an actuality.

MEXICO AGAIN.
As a result of continued disorder and insecurity in Mexico it is not by any means impossible that before the close of the present week a situation may arise in Washington that will require the wheat treatment that can be bestowed upon it by the White House and the Capitol. Already, with the President's approval, a note has been despatched from the department of state to the Mexican minister of foreign affairs and to the interventionist chief of state in Chihuahua, Mexico, in which the attitude of the government of the United States toward existing conditions in the neighboring republic is presented with striking positiveness. The communication drawn by acting Secretary of State Wilson and revised and sanctioned by the President falls short of being a threat, but it is unquestionably a warning that would seem to call for immediate attention.

Recent events in Mexico have been ruinous to the interests of Americans. In Chihuahua, they have assumed even a graver phase. In fact, if the revolutionary leaders and certain of the federal officers were studiously calculating the best means of providing intervention, they could hardly have taken a more certain course. Despite the fact that the Washington government has taken extraordinary care to display its friendship for the Mexican people, a bitter anti-American sentiment prevails in the country, and especially in those parts where American capital, enterprise and energy have been most largely employed.

In the warning note that has been telegraphed to the city of Mexico and to the headquarters of Orozco, significant emphasis is laid upon the apparent absence of authority in the republic competent to assure and secure to Americans there the treatment which their government has a right to expect for them. Americans, it is pointed out, have been subjected to treatment "contrary to the principles governing such matters among all civilized nations."

It will be seen that the note brings the whole matter to an issue. Plainly, the Mexican government must at once exhibit its ability to protect the persons and property of Americans in the republic, or the United States government will be driven to the necessity of taking steps on its own account to bring about this end. It is to the whole world that intervention is desired neither by the government nor by the people of the United States; equally clear must it be, however, that existing conditions should not be permitted to continue indefinitely. If this government must do in the case of Mexico what it has already done in the case of Cuba, it will be manifestly to the interest of all concerned that it act promptly and decisively. There is hardly a doubt that American intervention would be hailed with satisfaction not only by Americans, and other foreigners in Mexico, but by many law-abiding Mexicans as well.

MUST BE FAIR.
While the world is still horror-stricken at the terrible disaster which follows the sinking of the Titanic, one should be taken not to pass judgment on the officials or survivors until the real facts of the case are known. The rule has always been "Women and children first," and this appears to have been followed in the sinking of this ocean greyhound. That some men were saved and others were not, may be easily explained. The fact remains, however, that the boat was not equipped with enough life-saving apparatus to have rescued all the passengers and crew. In this the blame must be laid at the door of the owners of the vessel despite the fact that they had complied with the antiquated maritime laws which had their origin in the days of sailing vessels and had not been re-organized to meet the demands of the modern ocean steamships, floating cities as they are. Judgment must be withheld until the facts are known and the tales of the bravery of the men who stayed behind are told to the waiting world.

CLEANING UP DAY.
Janesville is to have a municipal cleaning-up day. This is a good move in the right direction. Clean up the city and keep it clean, is a doctrine of health and beauty. The new commissioners in their inaugural address dwelt upon the subject of cleaning up the river banks and keeping them clean and also cleaning up the city at large. Keep it up gentlemen and soon Janesville will be a model city. Meanwhile start cleaning up your collars in preparation of the big cleaning-up day next week.

THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW.
Perhaps there have been numerous complaints in the past twenty-four hours over the fall of snow and attending inconveniences by citizens generally. However we are told by scientists that the April snow storms, particularly after a long, cold, hard winter, means thousands of dollars to the growing crops, trees, lawns and shrubs during the warm summer months that are to come. The snow will vanish quickly, past troubles will be forgotten and the storm of April 17th will merely go down into history to be remembered in future years.

THE STREETS.
The public have some rights eye in Janesville. Sidewalks and gutters can not be blocked for an indefinite period. Inconvenience, pedestrianism and endangering life and limb, Janesville needs all the new buildings that it can have, but even in the building the contractors should not be permitted to inconvenience the public at the expense of time and labor to themselves. However, under the commissioners this matter will be quickly adjusted.

CHARITY AT HOME.
Illustrative of the old adage, "Charity begins at home," add your contribution to the fund now being raised for the use of the family of the unfortunate Edward Lawrence who was drowned last Friday night. The money will be used to advantage and is badly needed by the widow and little family of four boys, the oldest but eleven. A few dollars now will mean much in the years to come.

It is to be hoped the commissioners will see fit to reappoint Dan Wilkins as street commissioner. It appears to be the sentiment of business men and citizens generally that he is the best man for the position he fills that could be found. His work has been honest and faithful and he has been on the job every minute since he was named a year ago. This fact is unprecedented by business men who will be interested to learn of his reappointment.

It would look as though the income tax law was going to cost the republican party a lot of votes this coming fall. Its obnoxious requirements are making voters for the democratic candidate, whoever he may be, and if that party is smart enough to put up a good, strong man with this issue at stake, it may mean a revolution in state affairs.

This Sunday opening of places of amusement when the doors of the same places are closed during several nights in the week in order to attract a good Sunday crowd is a fair illustration of what may be expected if the present practice is followed.

The early robin awoke this morning to find the worm was well hidden and the old adage, "the early bird catches the worm," could not be fulfilled.

Congress is still discussing many matters that will make good campaign material from the democratic point of view.

PRESS COMMENT.

"Women and Children Saved."
Chicago News: After the world has settled down to the belief that no lives had been lost by the accident to the great ocean liner, the Titanic, it learns with horror that in all probability more than 1,200 of the passengers and crew went down to the bottom of the Atlantic in that ill-fated vessel.

The shock of this terrible loss is accompanied by feelings of pride and admiration because the men on board, facing death, stood back and gave the women and children the places in the boats that were launched in the big ship settled down into the grave. There were heroes in plenty on board the Titanic, as well as men of great wealth and wide renown.

The human race mourns its heavy loss, but it accepts the boatloads of rescued women and children as a precious token of the high courage and the loving self-sacrifice of the

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
By Roy K. Moulton.

The Old Man's Wooden Leg.
My old wooden leg was made out'n a tree
And it was made out'n a poplar, you see;
'Twas Normandy poplar, the kind that grows fast,
Of poplar logs that 'um will sure be the last.
Oh, I was so proud of my new wooden leg,
But sudden my pride was took down quite a peg;
For that doggone poplar it started to grow
So that I could not navigate much you know.

My good leg stayed short, like 'twas meant for to be,
But that doggone leg which was made of a tree
Kept growin' and growin'; although you may scoff,
I had to keep sawin' the god darn thing off.

When I would leave home to go down to the store,
My poplar leg would grow six inches or more
It made me lopsided when I tried to walk,
And soon that off leg was the common town talk.
It kept on a growin' in wonderful style,
And I had to carry a saw all the while.
I sawed off enough in the course of a week,
To keep me in firewood a month, so to speak.
I had to stay indoors most all of that fall,
For I didn't have time to go out at all.

I had to keep sawin' and sawin' you see,
To beat out that leg which was made from a tree;
It aighd drive me crazy and daffy because
I found it was wearin' out too many saws.

And saws are expensive, you'd have to agree,
If you had a leg that was made from a tree.
At last I got tired of sawin' the thing,
And then I got a brilliant idea, by Jingo:
I planted my leg in the old public square,
And it started growin' right up in the air.

And then most as soon as you could wink your eye,
The town had a flagpole three hundred feet high;
It kept right on growin', and never will stop,
Men who took the plunge to the bottom of the deep that the weaker companions of their party might live.

Illinois Humiliation.
Madison State Journal: Illinois had suffered enough humiliation; heaven knows, through Lormerion without having to bear the added burden of a democratic party disgrace. Last Tuesday the rank and file of the democratic party voted peacefully, intelligently and with conscientious deliberation at the polls. Yesterday we saw the convention plan in operation, it was a painful exhibition of chicanery, bullying, violence, cheap and unworthy subterfuge. A free-for-all fight, a battle that involved the people, special deputies, firemen, election officials, the militia and even the governor of the state. It was a war not of words or ideas or principles but of bullets, bayonets and battle axes. And still we hear some faint intellectual argue that the government of the people is best served and conserved through the convention system.

Team Work on the Stump.
No little interest attaches to the announcement from California that arrangements have been made by the progressives of that state to have Mrs. La Follette on the stump there at the same time that the senator is making his speaking tour. She will address the meetings of the women voters especially. But what if the women should feel slighted? Is there no way to satisfy both sides of the house? And is there a hint that ambitious persons contemplating marriage, in future, must consider the eligibility of the patron of hobbie skirts for the stump?

Madison Democrat: The state board of immigration is urging all public schools to have as one feature of their commencement exercises a discussion of the topic, "Wisconsin, Her Agricultural Bank and Development." Material for this purpose will be promptly furnished any student by addressing the immigration board at Madison. The plan is most worthy and must result in some spiritual and useful dissertations on a subject of universal interest in this state.

Graduation Fashions.
Evening Wisconsin: Radcliffe college has issued an edict that graduation gowns this year shall have long sleeves and be high in the neck. The edict also bans bareheaded. Various authorities say the members of the graduating class at that institution may wear as they see fit. The color and style of graduation gowns are left to a committee of students. Last year the committee decided for trains. A great many sensible parents will think that Radcliffe has shown better judgment in this matter than Vassar.

Heart to Heart Talks.

JACK SHEETS, HERO.
One of my correspondents asks for the story of Jack Sheets, the wireless hero.
"Here it is:
Jack Sheets is a sixteen-year-old high school boy of Philadelphia. During his spare hours he mastered the mystery of wireless telegraphy and learned the code.
Last summer he secured a position during vacation as wireless operator on the steamer Lexington, an Atlantic coast vessel.
On the first voyage out the ship ran into a storm off the coast of South Carolina. Hugo waves swept over the vessel. The frightened passengers huddled in the cabin while the crew fought to keep the Lexington off the much dreaded reefs.
Lying prone on the deck, where no man could stand, and cool as a veteran, was young Sheets, flashing his distress signal over the waters.
Before long, because of the buffeting of the waters, the wireless rigging was parted from the transmitter, rendering the boy's instrument useless.
But—
In his makeup was hero stuff. He realized that the lives of passengers and crew were in his small hands, and he took a desperate chance.
No sooner was the connection broken than he started to climb into the rigging with his instrument. Up there, stretched between the masts, was the wireless outfit.
The captain, himself lashed to the wheel, looked to see the boy blown away in the teeth of the gale or thrown into the sea by the lurching of the ship.
It was a fearful chance.
Summoning all his determination and every atom of his strength and agility, young Sheets slowly but surely made his way. Lashing himself to the mast, he was able to attach his instrument to the wires.
And then he stayed.
Meanwhile the vessel had drifted on to the reefs and was pounding out its life. And Jack Sheets, the sixteen-year-old boy, was up there sounding out his pleading call for aid.
Finally through the storm came an answering signal, and shortly after the revenue cutter Yamacraw came to the rescue.
It was a situation requiring good seamanship, but the passengers and crew were taken off, one at a time. The last one off was the captain. The next to the last was Jack Sheets.
Yes; heroism is common.
But, mind you, it never is common place.

New York, April 18.—The stockholders of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America met today to authorize an increase in the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $10,000,000, of which about $7,000,000 is to be loaned soon for extending the system in this country. It is understood that the plans include the erection of a powerful station near New York, which will communicate directly with one to be erected near London, and of another in this vicinity for communicating with the South, probably through Cuba to Panama, and thence to South American points.

Question?
Can you guess what this common-looking, lifeless bit of paper and printer's ink would say if it could talk? We think they'd congratulate each other that their mission had proved a success; because the first two of four essentials of a good advertisement are that they "get seen" and "get read." But the last two, "get believed" and "get the reader — you — to do something," are even more essential to accomplish the mission of this talk.
We are talking to you for our goods until they can talk to you themselves, which will be just as soon as you call and examine them. But they will talk for themselves even more emphatically after you have begun to wear them; it is then that their self-praise will be the most forcible.

WILL TAKE MEANS TO COLLECT FEES KEPT BY WEIRICK

AFTER LONG DISCUSSION BOARD DECIDES BY 30 TO 7 VOTE TO COLLECT FEES.

SANATORIUM IS URGED

Miss Tate Addressed Board This Morning in Regard to County Tuberculosis Hospital—Other Matters Today.

At the session of the county board at the office of the county clerk this afternoon the following resolution introduced by Supervisor M. P. Richardson of Janesville was adopted by a 30 to 7 vote. Resolved by the county board of Supervisors of Rock county that the District Attorney be and is hereby instructed to take such steps as may be necessary to collect the fees of the office of the Register of Deeds which have been retained by former Register of Deeds C. H. Weirick.

The following supervisors voted against the resolution: Supervisors Sherman, Olmstead, Heddes, Overton, Sherman, S. Smith and Tollenfoss.

Adoption Is Urged.

The introduction of this resolution caused something of a stir at the board this afternoon. The Weirick matter is one of long standing and the board has not taken action which results in a more definite understanding as to the exact status of affairs. Supervisor L. E. Gettle of Edgerton, was urgent in his remarks in favor of the resolution. He explained the result of the supreme court decision in the Burgess case which involved a similar situation in Dane county. The decision in this case, he said, and the same point, was emphasized by Supervisor Richardson, that if the county board by the resolution adopted clearly indicated their intention to change from the fee system to the salary plan of paying the Register of Deeds, the court must decide in favor of the county. The intent of the board must be taken into consideration no matter how poorly framed in language.

Earlmarks of Rascality.
Supt. Gettle declared that the action of the former register of deeds and his attorneys had the earmarks of rascality and dishonesty. He stated, however, that it was not a feeling of revenge which prompted him to urge the adoption of this resolution, but for the reason that he did not believe that the county could afford to allow so valid a claim in favor of the county slip by with all the harmful precedents which it would bring because the board did not have bluff enough to stand up for its right. He offered to give his services free to the District Attorney in fighting for amount which the county claimed being some $13,000.

Supervisors Simon Smith and S. H. Heddes offered remarks against the adoption of the resolution. Both were members of the special committee which investigated the matter last year and which reported favorably to the acceptance of the proposition of Mr. Weirick and his attorneys, which it was understood was now withdrawn. Mr. Smith and Mr. Heddes were not in favor of engaging in the expense of litigation for an amount so small especially after they had lost the injunction suit at a considerable expense to the county, (some $300, it was stated). The vote when taken was rather decisive in favor of trying out the proposition, the result being 30 to 7 for adoption.

Superintendent's Report.
At the meeting this afternoon Superintendent Antdahl offered his report for the year which was accepted and ordered incorporated in the minutes.

The committee named by the Chairman to investigate the sanatorium was Supervisors Gettle, S. Smith, and Hear.

It was doubtful whether the board would adjourn this afternoon.

Sanatorium Discussed.

At the meeting of the county board this morning the matter of a county tuberculosis sanatorium was presented by Miss Tate of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. The report of the special committee on the insurance of county buildings was heard and suitable action taken, and considerable discussion was held over the matter of empowering the county highway commissioner to employ the town chairman as assistants in the state road work, the cost of which should be paid from the general fund.

Miss Tate presented the matter of a county tuberculosis sanatorium with clearness explaining the necessity of such an institution in Rock county. According to the reports to the state board of health there were sixty-two deaths in Rock county in 1910, an increase of nine deaths in one year. Miss Tate pointed out that there were probably 350 living cases in the county that demanded the attention of trained attendants.

$15,000 Would Be Cost.
Patients in the advance stages of the disease where the malady becomes contagious, are the ones for whom the sanatorium would be especially noticeable. Miss Tate pointed out that the institution should be established in all counties where the conditions were as bad as in Rock for the protection of ourselves as well as for the humanitarian interests of the patients.

In speaking of the cost it was stated that $15,000 would be necessary. The board might dispose of the matter of expense by providing for a bond issue so that future taxpayers might share in the cost of the hospital. The sanatorium might be placed on a paying basis within a few years, it was stated, as the percentage of patients to be cared for by the county would be small.

Committee Appointed.
Following Miss Tate's address to the board, Supervisor Gettle offered a resolution providing for a committee of three members appointed by the chairman to investigate the matter of a tuberculosis sanatorium for Rock county from every possible angle and report at the November session of the board. Chairman Gray stated he would name the committee at the afternoon session.

The special committee on the validity of the resolution regarding the insurance of the county buildings has taken out with the state, offered their report this morning. Supervisor Richardson, in the report of the committee, stated that the decision reached was that the board had no right to rescind the action taken at the November meeting providing for the state insurance.

Means of Evasion.

The committee recommended, however, and the board adopted a resolution to the same effect, that the board might evade or escape insurance with the state for several years by taking out insurance with the private companies for a term of years such as they saw fit prior to July 1st, 1912, when the state insurance plan would go into operation. According to the law there is no prohibition on the board in taking such action and the resolution provided that the buildings committee make arrangements for at least three years before the expiration of the time which is still allowed them for such action.

It was pointed out in the discussion which followed the report and provision to adopting the resolution, that the state insurance commission would take out insurance on the county buildings after July 1st for the difference in the per cent of insurance between that taken out in the private companies and the ninety per cent of the valuation of the buildings which is required by the law under the state system.

Discuss Highway Matters.

Supervisor Moore offered a resolution empowering the county highway commissioner to appoint as his assistants such of the town chairmen as he might need in the construction of the state aid highways, and that the assistants be paid out of the general fund. Mr. Moore explained that this resolution was necessary according to the law which specified that the board must give the road commissioner power to appoint his assistants and that it further indicated that they should be paid as other officers, out of the general fund.

There was considerable discussion on this matter. The opinion expressed was that the road commissioner might go ahead with instructions from the board and name the chairman to assist him, and that the expense would be paid out of the joint fund the same as any other cost incurred in building the road. Action on the resolution was deferred until one o'clock to which time the board adjourned.

At the session this morning Supervisor Moore offered a resolution which was adopted, providing an appropriation of $2,000 for two one-hundred horsepower rollers for the county house.

Business Yesterday.

Among the business transacted yesterday afternoon was a resolution providing for the appropriation of $500 for a barn for the sheriff. The dimensions of the structure will be 25 by 30 feet.

On the motion of Supervisor Heddes an appropriation of $100 was made for incidental expenses of the building committee.

On the motion of Supervisor Gettle, $25 was appropriated to provide L. M. Nelson with an assistant to watch the windows of the court house. Supervisor Richardson stated that after examining the law relative to the state insurance of county buildings he was doubtful as to the legality of the resolution passed at the morning session. A special committee composed of District Attorney Dunwiddie, and Supervisors Gettle and Richardson were appointed by the chairman to investigate the matter and report this morning.

SIX INCHES OF SNOW FELL LAST EVENING

Weatherman Plays Practical Joke on Spring Feet—Storm Continues Throughout Night.

Over six inches of heavy, wet snow fell yesterday afternoon and last night, and this morning lot-owners and the street commissioner and his force were busy clearing it off the sidewalks and street intersections. The snow was so wet that it adhered to the sides of buildings but electric and telephone wires escaped damage. A rapid thaw followed the storm and by this afternoon most of the snow had melted. No interruptions to street car or railway traffic were reported.

No Blasphemy in Japan.

Blasphemy in Japan is another rude disillusionment for the credulous traveler. Prof. H. H. Chamberlain, in his "Things Japanese," remarks: "The Japanese vocabulary, though extraordinarily rich and constantly growing, is honorably deficient in terms of abuse. It affords absolutely no means of cursing and swearing."

In Milwaukee, April 18.—About six inches of snow fell in Milwaukee and vicinity during the night causing considerable inconvenience to street railway and steam road travel. Telegraph and telephone wires escaped trouble on some of their circuits. The snow came from the northwest and still continues at nine o'clock this morning.

DESCRIBES LITERARY HAUNTS FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Miss Mary Armstrong Gave Interesting Description of This Morning's Places Visited.

Places intimately connected with the life and literary work of Julian Hawthorne and other famous New England authors were vividly described by Miss Mary Armstrong, instructor in history, in an account of her visit to New England given the high school students at the opening exercises this morning. Among the places described were Salem, the old city of witchcraft fame and home of Hawthorne, the Peabody house, the custom house where he earned his living in early life, and the house of Raven tables, identified with the story of that name. Miss Ada Buckmaster, with a blackboard drawing, assisted in the description of this well-known place. In the opinion of Miss Armstrong no place in America affords so many historic spots within a short distance of one another as Concord, New Hampshire. Here are to be found the home of Louisa Alcott, author of "Little Men" and "Little Women," the site of the battle of the Bridge, where the first shot in the War of the Revolution was fired, the home of James Russell Lowell, Sleepy Hollow, and a quiet old cemetery.

NO RESENTMENT SEEN IN PRES. MADERO'S ACTION.

Head of Mexican Republic Thought to be Trying to Save Mexico From Financial Responsibility.

Washington, April 18.—Pres. Madero's reply to acting secretary Huntington Wilson's admission in regard to the treatment of Americans in Mexico is regarded rather as an attempt to relieve the Mexican government from financial liability for damages inflicted upon foreigners by the rebels, than as an evidence of resentment against the action of the United States.

EXAMINATION GEORGE BIDWELL HELD OPEN

Mrs. Martha Wicklund, Complainant, on Stand—Defendant Questions Her But Is Not Sworn.

The examination of George Bidwell of Rockford, charged with obtaining money fraudulently from Mrs. Martha Wicklund, was taken up in the municipal court at two o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Wicklund was sworn and questioned by District Attorney Dunwiddie and the defendant who was not represented by a questioner, was given the privilege of asking questions in the points in dispute. No other witnesses were called and as the District Attorney desired an opportunity to obtain further information as to the case the examination was held open until two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The case hangs upon the question of whether a small card given Mrs. Wicklund by Bidwell for the purpose of identifying her when she went to draw an order on him at the Chicago and Northwestern railway had written on it the sum that was due him. He asserts that $5.75 was written on it, and Mrs. Wicklund is just as sure that no figures were on it, but only his name and a street number. She had been led to believe that he had at least sixty dollars coming to him. Mrs. Wicklund said that she had loaned him sums of money on several occasions, usually amounts of five and ten dollars. She did not remember how much altogether. She had confidence in him, and had loaned him money because he had no home. District Attorney Dunwiddie asked Mrs. Wicklund to try to find the slip of paper over which the dispute arose.

TAMING THE SHREW

NOTABLE EVENT AT

LOCAL PLAYHOUSE

Shakespeare's Masterpiece Given By Southern-Marlowe Company Before Appreciative Audience.

As long as the English tongue is spoken the wonderful productions of William Shakespeare will continue to thrill audiences wherever and whenever produced. "The Taming of the Shrew" has lost none of its vigor and comedy lines during the years.

It has been played and under the skillful handling of Edward H. Southern and John Marlowe the interpretation of the lines have added to its popularity. There are perhaps no two plays on the stage today that are as close students of Shakespeare as Mr. Southern and Miss Marlowe.

It is their ambition to produce the works of the great Englishman in the best manner possible and all the little stage settings, the bits of realism introduced into the plays they act in, are but the result of careful thought and planning and months of study.

They not only surround themselves with the best possible environments for a successful production but choose the members of their company with special view to their individual fitness for the parts they are to play.

The company that produced "The Taming of the Shrew" at Myers theater last evening is an example of a dramatic company that is the ideal of all actors. It was a most evenly balanced cast, each actor seemed especially designed for the part they represented and with the faultless stage settings of the period the play represented, the costumes, the scenery, even to the red curtain that was drawn aside before each scene, it was a most finished production.

The play is too well known to take any space and the work of Mr. Southern as "Petruchio," the gentleman of Verona, who seeks fortune and a wife, even by marrying "Katharine," the shrew daughter of "Baptista" of Padua, the part taken by Miss Marlowe, is almost perfect.

Miss Marlowe is somewhat stouter than when in Janesville last, but her added avoirdupois does not detract from her wonderful face, charming mannerisms and finished acting. She was shrewish enough to suit an actor, but her display of anger, was apparently not assumed and until she appeared as the tamed wife, ready to agree the sun was the moon, an old man, a handsome young girl, or come at her husband's bidding to chide the wives of his friends, as final submission to her husband's will, she did not for a moment fail to interpret her lines with feeling and a poise that only comes from close study.

Janesville was fortunate in having the opportunity of seeing these actors in this play. They showed their appreciation by frequent curtain calls during the performance and throughout the evening the situation and quality of the play, the great author has put into his parts, inclement weather, perhaps, kept a few away who might otherwise have attended, but there were few scant seats and those in the rear of the house only.

At The Theatre

"MUTT AND JEFF." The most talked of play of the season is due to arrive in Janesville on Saturday April 27 for an engagement of twelve and evening at the Myers Theater. What?—why, "Mutt and Jeff" of course! This little farcical production of Bud Fisher's, clever cartoon creation, is the summation of this, and of many past theatrical seasons. It's one real knockout. It's a great success story. The most famous cartoon play in history. It is creating new box office records in the four corners of the United States. It is the greatest high producer ever conceived by a playwright. The greatest theatrical syndicate in the world has caused the news to be spread broadcast, that "Mutt and Jeff" is the financial success of the year. Think of it! It has outdistanced all of the big "stars". It shows which way the wind blows. The people want to laugh; they don't want to weep or worry over morbid and depressing plays. Neither do they want to reach their brain over problem plays. They don't want to pay two dollars to see one famous actor with an insignificant company, where the "big h" gets one thousand dollars a week and the supporting company gets about thirty-five dollars each. The public have declared themselves for a good play irrespective of who plays it as long as it is well played. They have declared themselves for equality. They want to see a company of performers who work together on an equal footing for the pleasure and amusement of the theatregoers. Gus Hill sends an adequate company of 45 singers, dancers and comedians including a chorus of unusually pretty girls, to the Myers Theater. "Mutt and Jeff" is a laughing vehicle almost to excess. If it were not for the relief afforded by the several pretty musical numbers, an over sufficiency of merriment might prove fatal. The play contains everything so dear to the theatregoers heart. Girls, music, gorgeous costumes, beautiful scenery and fun galore. Of the clean kind that you can take your grandmother to see without a blush. Better "bliss" right down to the box office and another couple of "patheons" for the "big scream!"

PLOWING DEMONSTRATION

WITH A

25 h. p. I. H. C. Kerosene-Gasoline Tractor

WILL BE HELD

April 30th and May 1st, on the Willard Austin Farm

Known as the Prairie View Stock Farm, Located 4 Miles Northeast of Janesville,
On the County Farm Road, Near the Harmony Town Hall.

Below We Give a List of the Work of the I. H. C. Engines at the Winnipeg Motor Contest:

FIRST, An I. H. C. gasoline engine plowed the cheapest acre plowed with gasoline, 31½ cents.
An I. H. C. engine plowed the second cheapest acre plowed with gasoline, 35 6-10 cents.
An I. H. C. engine burning kerosene, reduced the cost of plowing an acre to 29 3-10 cents.

SECOND, An I. H. C. engine plowed the greatest number of acres per hour, 2.74 acres. This is a record.

THIRD, An I. H. C. gasoline engine used less gasoline per acre than any other engine in the contest, 11.01 lbs.

FOURTH, An I. H. C. engine drew a larger number of plows than any other engine. Every I. H. C. engine above the 25 H. P. class, whether burning gasoline or kerosene, picked up 10 fourteen-inch plows and pulled this number throughout the test.

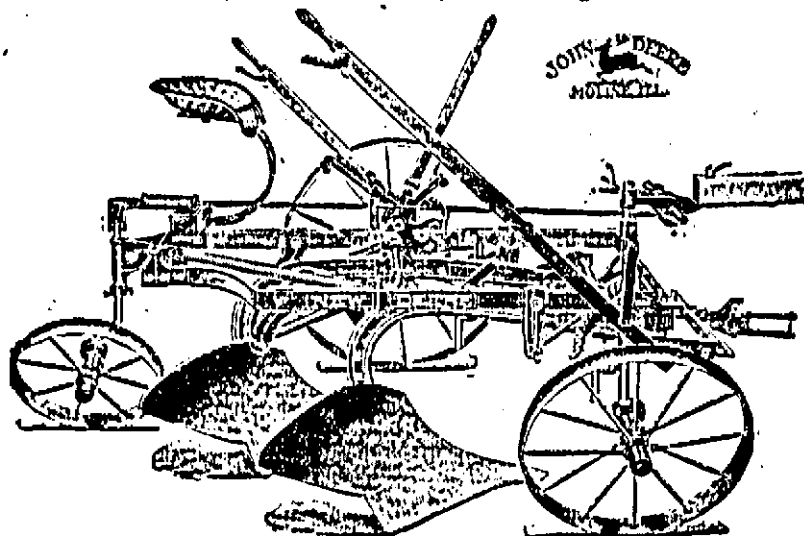

FIFTH, An I. H. C. gasoline engine delivered the largest average draw bar pull, 6650 pounds.

SIXTH, No I. H. C. engine entered was obliged to stop for any defective part, breakage, readjustment or miring.

CONCLUSION: These results are taken directly from the judges' figures. They prove, in so far as a contest can prove, that when it comes to real plowing, in a real farmer's field, the I. H. C. engines, whether Titan or Mogul, gasoline or kerosene, have no equal. Neither time, money, nor pains was ever spared in the effort to produce the simplest, strongest, most durable engine that experience could develop. Each contest for the last three years has shown that the single and double cylinder engines are right, last longer, do more work, use less fuel, are managed more easily than the more complicated high speed four-cylinder engines. These engines are built in 12, 15, 20, 25 and 45 H. P. sizes.

The "New Deere" Plows

today than these plows. The best of steel workmanship and finish. Built in all sizes and for all purposes. Ask for them.

McCormick 6 and 8 Roll Huskers and Shredders

McCormick Huskers and Shredders double the value of the Corn Crop. For the farmer who only raises a small acreage of corn and wishes to do his own shredding, the 6-roll is the size he will want to buy, while if he is a large raiser of corn, the 8-roll will take care of any requirement he may have.

The I. H. C. Newlow Endless Apron Manure Spreader

is built close to the ground to meet the demand for a low down type of machine. It can be loaded easily and much more evenly and can be loaded by a boy as well as by a man. The single wheel in front is a great advantage as it does not allow the pole to swing around when crossing dead furrows in the field, and also prevents the warping and twisting of the frame when passing over rough ground. These are only a few of the many good features of the NEWLOW SPREADER.

The New King

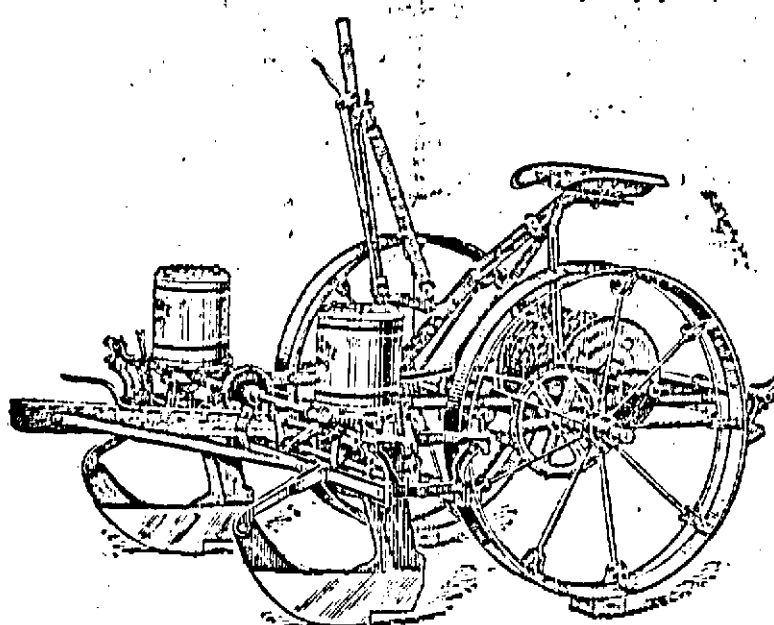

The Steel King is a new king among farm wagons. The Steel King Wagon has a steel running gear. The axles have internal reinforcements. The stakes are adjustable. Every part is as nearly proof against the weather as it is possible to make it. Come to us; examine one; we have one waiting your inspection. A few minutes' talk will put you right on the wagon question.

We also handle the celebrated Smith Wagon, which is in a class by itself and can only be appreciated by seeing it.

DEERE DISK AND SHOVEL CULTIVATORS.
DEERE DISK HARROWS.
OSBORNE DISK HARROWS.
LA CROSE HARROWS.

The Celebrated Deere Line of Corn Planters

Made in all widths, both hill and drill, edge drop, any plate, to drop one, two, three or four kernels. No trouble with the Deere. To see it is to buy it.

Sharples Tubular Cream Separators

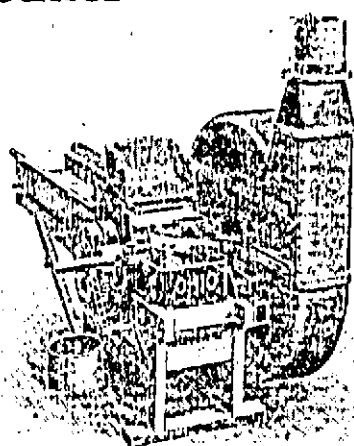

Skim closer under all conditions, than any "bucket bowl" machine, produce a perfectly smooth, frothless cream of any desired density, run at full capacity with two-thirds, or less, of the power required for any "bucket bowl" machine, have the most convenient, safe, durable and desirable arrangement of running parts, and are absolutely safe from accidents caused by exposed gears or by top-heavy bowls, filled with loose parts.

The Tubular uses less oil and requires fewer repairs than any other Separator made. See the Sharples Tubular before you buy.

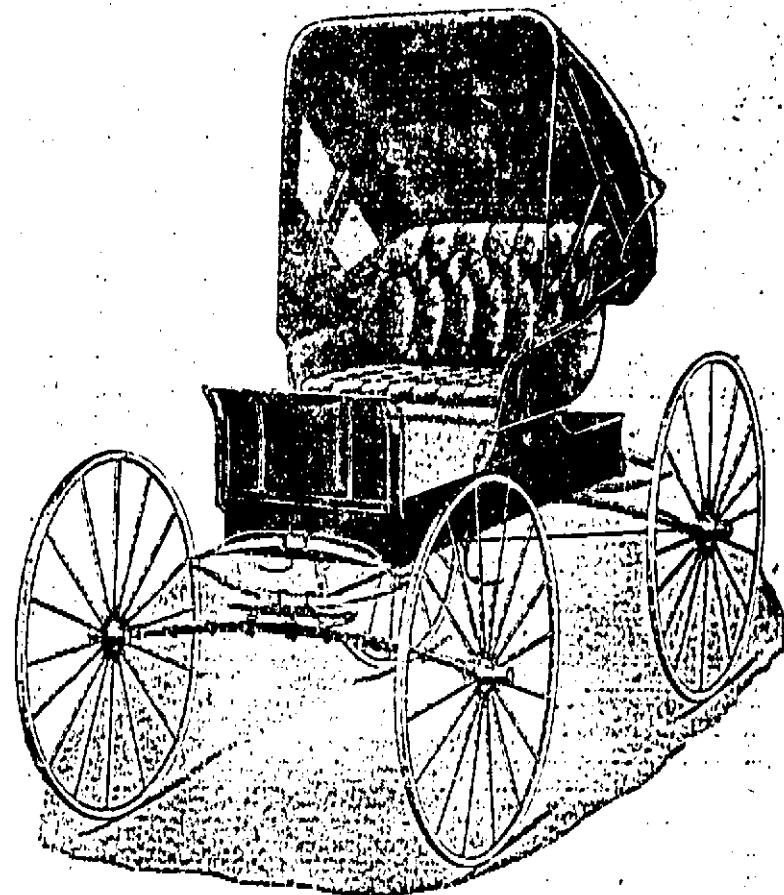

"Ohio" Monarch Self-Feed Blower Silage Cutter

HERE IT IS—THE PRIDE OF THOUSANDS. 5 sizes, with 12, 15, 17, 19 or 22-inch knives, furnished as shown, or mounted on all steel truck as wanted. The "OHIO" never blows up. The fan is enclosed in a twelve-gauge steel case. There is no "give" to "OHIO" steel blades. The "OHIO" is dependable. The "OHIO" is efficient, durable, attractive and is built to stand the burden put upon it during the rush time of Silo Filling. You must inspect this machine.

Velie Wrought Iron Vehicles Are in a Class By Themselves

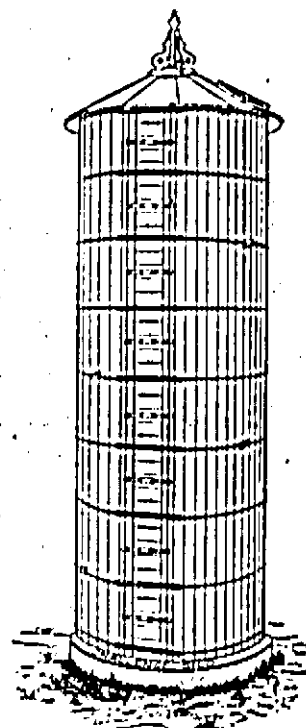

The popularity of the Velie is due to no other reason than the work is superior to other makes at anywhere near the same price. They are built in one grade only and this in itself insures a more uniform product than can be produced where two or more grades are produced in the same factory. There is more value in the VELIE WROUGHT IRON LINE than can be found in any other make of vehicles, consequently fewer repair bills. Call and examine the new 1912 styles before buying.

Challenge Silos

are the best silos which the market affords, at a reasonable price. We make a feature of the inside hoop, which braces the silo at the top, prevents buckling in hot weather, and which, if used, will prevent the silo from any possible twist or collapse. We furnish these Silos in Yellow Pine, Oregon Fir or Cypress. The Challenge Silo is the one you want if you are going to buy a silo this season.

Repairs for every machine made. Tell us your wants and we will satisfy them.

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS

BY BARBARA BOYD

A Woman and a Restaurant.

She is a college graduate; but when in college her interest centered chiefly around home economics, domestic science, the chemistry of food and such subjects.

So when she left college, she did a little hard thinking before she decided just how she would use her college education. Anything that had to do with the problem of food, she felt would yield a generous living. The problem of food was the subject that most interested her. So she put these two important facts together and decided that here was the field in which she would work.

And today she has a chain of the country's most successful restaurants. She is the largest buyer of foodstuffs of any one person in the country. And her profits could easily run into a hundred thousand dollars annually, if she wished them to. But best of all, she is doing a work she likes, and a work which she thinks is worth while. For she believes that much of the physical and mental inefficiency of men and women today is due to the poor food they eat.

She started with a lunch counter in a business section of a large city; but soon its fame spread, and it was invaded by the fashionable element.

Then she opened a restaurant in the fashionable section, and this too was soon filled to overflowing. And thus her business grew, until now there is a chain of restaurants under her management.

Scrupulous cleanliness, exquisite neatness, wholesome food, good cooking, and moderate prices are the foundations upon which she has built.

All her dishes are washed by hand, because she does not think that machine-washed dishes are clean. But they are rinsed by machinery in boiling water and then allowed to dry, so that they are perfectly sterilized.

Cleanliness and neatness on the part of employees are insisted upon. Bathrooms are attached to the restaurant, and baths required. A manicure is employed by her to carefully manicure the hands of all employees.

And to prove the need of this a lecturer from a famous institution of learning was called in to give laboratory experiments showing the necessity of absolutely clean hands when working about food. Washable cotton clothes are provided by her and laundered at her own expense.

All the work, of course, is conducted in a thoroughly scientific, up-to-date fashion. Those in charge of various branches of the work are all college graduates.

Although the bill of fare is as varied as any one can wish, a special menu is served each day, that is a properly balanced meal, and she makes a point of using pure wholesome foodstuffs. She will not use stale eggs, even though their taste may be disguised. To show how this can be done, she took absolutely spoiled eggs, and with the addition of chemicals, made a cake, that, so far as taste was concerned, could not be differentiated from one made of good eggs. But she will have none of such practices.

She says it is food of this kind served in many restaurants that is the cause of our almost national ill-health.

In one of her restaurants, she has a complaint box, in which she asks for criticisms. Sometimes, these are quite helpful; sometimes, quite funny. But she looks them over with great interest, because she is anxious to serve the people.

Good restaurants are not so plentiful yet, but that many another woman, to whom food and its problems appeal, could follow her example. For any one who will provide wholesome, well-cooked food, daintily served, at a moderate price, will meet with success. But it must be done as this woman is doing it, honestly. There must be square dealing, where the eye of the patron cannot penetrate.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE best thing of an inexpensive kind is almost always better than a cheap thing of a more expensive class.

Things which appear exactly the same on the surface are often entirely different when you look into them more closely. For instance, knowing how to spend money and knowing how to buy, might appear to be the same thing, but they are entirely different. Every woman knows how to do the first; one in a hundred, the second. And yet, knowing how to buy wisely is one of the most important divisions in woman's great science of home-making.

I heard an investigator of financial conditions assert that women spend over three-fourths of all the money that is earned in the middle and lower classes. "Think how important it is that they should know how to spend it wisely. Volumes might certainly be written on this subject, but I don't know enough to write them. I just want to bring home to you one principle of wise buying with which I have recently been impressed and which I stated above, namely—the best thing of an inexpensive kind is almost always better than a cheap thing of a more expensive class.

Nine years ago two young girls who were chums were married at about the same time. These young couples had nearly the same amount of money to spend, and many of their household furnishings were similar. But in the matter of beds they disagreed. One girl was determined to have brass beds, and since she did not have enough money to buy a first-class article, bought some attractive but cheap brass beds.

Other girls said, "I would rather have a thoroughly good white bed than a cheap brass one," and forthwith, put about the same sum which her friend had invested, into the most attractive and well made white beds that could be bought. Today one girl has dirty white beds which look as fresh and attractive as when she bought them, while the other has a pair of tarnished and tawdry brass beds which spoil the appearance of her whole chamber.

It is better to buy good cut than cheap mahogany; a first-class cotton dress than a cheap silk one.

Good mullin or acorn curtains are infinitely preferable to hangings of cheap lace.

First-class cretonne is better than fourth-class tapestry. It is infinitely more satisfactory to pay fifty cents for the best of silk lace stockings than for the cheap grade of silk hose.

Good lamb will give you more nutriment and satisfaction for your money than cheap steak.

Indeed, in every department of buying, the housewife will find this a safe principle, and she will do well not to let herself be beguiled from it by the luring lure of something of a better class and more showy than she can really afford. At first she may think she is getting a bargain in the cheap expensive thing. In the end she will find out her mistake.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING

Savory Ways of Treating Veal Roast, Fillets and Pies.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Market inspection is so good now in most places that there is little danger of buying immature veal but over and over the warning must be given not to cook it thoroughly lest illness follow eating it.

Veal is a young meat; it is deficient in both fat and flavor and that is why a well seasoned stuffing or a rich gravy is always acceptable with it and why a little salt pork is needed when cooking it. It must always be cooked slowly after the surface is seared.

To fry veal cutlets first sprinkle the slices with a little salt and pepper. Fry two or three slices of salt pork and take up then cook the veal until brown in the fat remaining in the pan. Turn a level tablespoon of oil into the pan and pour into the pan a cup of boiling water and cook a few minutes. If the fat was seared do not use it for this brown sauce but if the veal is cooked as slowly as it ought to be the fat will be fit to use. Otherwise serve the cutlets with a tomato sauce. For a change add one-half cup of strained tomato to the brown sauce.

Not so common are veal fillets with bacon. Cut the sliced veal in to strips one inch wide and five or six inches long. Spread on each a little butter, well seasoned as for roast veal and roll up.

Line a baking dish with slices of bacon, lay in the rolls of meat and pour a cup of stock or boiling water and a teaspoon of vinegar. Cover and set in the oven to cook slowly until well done.

Veal pie has sort of an English flavor. Simmer a knuckle of veal in water to cover until tender and this may be done in the fireless cooker. Cut a small onion fine, add two slices of carrot, a bit of bay leaf and four large spoons of salt and add to rub smooth then one cup of boiling water and cook a few minutes.

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will butter-milk remove freckles permanently? (2) How would you recommend its use? (3) Is it a bad form to taste the bread and wine of a church you are not a member, if you belong to another church in another town? (4) Are tight skirts as they were last year? (5) Would the stamp cut from a stamped government envelope be pasted on a letter and used as an eraser that sentiment is growing against the practice. The original probably derived its name from a remote similarity to ladies' linens. (6) High-waisted dresses will be worn as much as they have been in the last few seasons.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What is the "third degree"? (2) Will high-waisted dresses be worn this summer? (3) The "third degree" is a practice used by the police in questioning prisoners with a view to compelling confessions. The methods used are sometimes so harsh and even cruel that sentiment is growing against the practice. The original probably derived its name from a remote similarity to ladies' linens. (4) High-waisted dresses will be worn as much as they have been in the last few seasons.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How should a girl of eleven wear her hair? (2) Much depends upon a girl's individual style. If she has curly or wavy hair it is often becoming to part it on the side or in the middle and braid it in a single braid, tying a four or five-inch ribbon just below her shoulders. But if she has straight hair it is better to wear it in a coronet around her head with a ribbon about four inches wide and one and one-eighth yards long, tied on each side just behind the ear.

If she has curly or wavy hair it is often becoming to part it on the side or in the middle and braid it in a single braid, tying a four or five-inch ribbon just below her shoulders. But if she has straight hair it is better to wear it in a coronet around her head with a ribbon about four inches wide and one and one-eighth yards long, tied on each side just behind the ear.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) How should a girl of eleven wear her hair? (2) Much depends upon a girl's individual style. PROFITS FOR CITY FOLK AS WELL AS FOR THE FARMERS

Fred J. Holt Writes Article Showing That Poultry Raising Is Profitable and Pleasurable for Professional and Business Men.

A question that is often asked is, Does poultry pay for the professional or business man as well as the farmer? In answer I will say that it certainly does and that is why I urge all who can to have a small flock of birds on the back lot. But one is never convinced until he has been shown and therefore I will try to show a few of the reasons why this business is a paying proposition.
The first thought that comes to one's mind is, how much should I have and how many? If you are looking for the best let me tell you that there is no best. That breed which is the most pleasing to your eye and which is noted for the purpose you wish them for is the one for you to have. If you were choosing a horse for road purposes you would not select the heavy draft animal and the same is true in reference to your choice of fowls. If for egg purposes, you will not select the heavy meat fowl. Unless you choose a kind that is pleasing to your eye you will not be able to keep the fowls balanced at all.
Buy Only Best.
The best of the variety that you have decided to keep is the kind for you to buy. It costs no more to house and feed the best hen than it does the poor mongrel and the sales are far better. Eggs for hatching and fowls for breeding will be purchased from you if you have but the one kind, and that kind good and in the course of a year's time this will go a long way toward paying the feed bill.
After the birds are in the pen the work begins. The more work one puts upon them the greater will be the results. Care must be taken so that the fowls receive nothing but the best of feeds at all times and that they are not neglected in any way. The number of birds to be kept will be smaller than can be kept on the farm, but the returns will be far greater in proportion to the number kept.
Get acquainted with the birds as soon as possible and stay acquainted with them all the while. The fowls you get, the fowls the better the results that you will get from them. Have the birds so tame that you can go into the pen and pick them up at any time. This can be done with the Leghorn just as easily as with the Cochin. One of the secrets of success in getting eggs is tameness among the fowls. No hen will do her best if she is scared every time you go near the pen. Then, too, the pleasure of having them gathered around you is worth the time it takes to tame them. If you do not care to have birds gather around you when you go to feed them you do not have the true poultry feeling and it is better that you do not try to have any fowls.
Paid For Themselves.
To show the result attained by one professional man let me quote as follows, remembering that he keeps chickens simply for the pleasure and for the eggs for his own family:
"In 1908 my nine hens gave me a profit of $11.18 over and above $12.12 spent for repairs and improvements. In 1909 I had a net gain of $19.18 from the same number of hens. In 1910 I had a profit of $31.66 from nine pullets and four hens. Then, too, I still had the chickens clear besides, I never had a year that they did not more than pay for themselves."
Of course, the above was done by carefully looking after the birds every day—cleaning the roosts every day or two, feeding the best of feeds and having good stock. But it was done by a man who was in the chicken culture for pleasure and what eggs they needed for the family. He did not advertise in the papers and sell eggs for hatching, but he did credit the birds with all the eggs used for the table and also charged up the fowls used for eating purposes. What this man did can be done by all professional and business men. And what can be done by these men with their limited amount of time can be more than doubled by the frugal housewife who has any love for fowls. The farmer's wife with her feed bills reduced to almost nothing, should be able to increase her pin money if she would but give careful attention to her birds. But the farmer's wife should not allow her fowls the run of the farm, but should pen them up, giving them large runs and who will find that greater profits will accrue than she now receives when she allows her birds free range of the farm.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

MILES STANDISH.
(By H. L. Hunt.)

Miles Standish is one of the Pilgrim Fathers who has rattled down through history in company with some anonymous blank verse by H. Longfellow. Miles came over in the Mayflower and had all of the diseases which the Pilgrim Fathers brought with them, but he had a very low rating as a Puritan, having a temper which nobody dared to toy with and a vocabulary of rich and unadorned expletives. On account of his aquinity style of architecture and a mild blue eye Miles was picked on a good deal at first by strangers, several of whom died while in the act of discovering their mistake. The Pilgrim Fathers and the Indians were not on speaking terms at this time, as the Indians used to come around and kill off a few of the neighbors and steal onions and other canned goods. As this was before the codfish ball was invented an epidemic of the triple-plated scurvy broke out, and the colonists were kept so busy scratching each other's backs that people couldn't tell a town meeting from a corn husking party. Miles refused to have anything to do with the scurvy, but his friend, John Alden, got enough for two, as he so touchingly portrayed by Mr. Longfellow. Miles had been made a widower some time before, and not liking it as well as he thought he should he decided to marry Priscilla Mullins, a young lady who came on near being a coquette as any of the Pilgrim Mothers ever got without being parboiled over a slow fire for witchcraft. On the day that he intended to propose to Priscilla, Miles was called out to succor a few Indians, so he sent Mr. Alden with a power of attorney and a quit claim deed to his old gun. John Alden told to his eldest son, in American history. Clad in a blue musketeer suit and the fabled atmosphere of the quinine pill, he slipped up to Priscilla and suggested that she ought to marry somebody before old age glided her with crowfeet, and other blemishes. Priscilla had not thought of being married that week, but after remarking "this is so sudden," or words to that effect, she laid her head on John's shoulder and spilled a number of large, salt tears on his shirt front. When Standish heard the news at prayer meeting, his first impulse was to erect a modest headstone over John's remains, but after seeing a little of John's home life and the brand of sole leather cooking he had to put up with, he ceased to repine.

WELL-KNOWN MINISTER

Restored to Health by Vinol

Rev. D. Schneider, who is a well known minister in Rice Lake, Wis., writes:

"I had a very severe stomach trouble last year from which I was kept in bed three months. I had engaged the services of a doctor, but to no avail. I then read of Vinol and determined to try a bottle. Before it was used up I was out of bed, and four bottles made me a well man. Vinol is a splendid medicine, and I can gladly recommend it."

Prominent men from all over the country do not hesitate to endorse this wonderful tonic.

For twelve years Vinol has been sold off the "money back" plan, and every year strengthens its popularity and proves by continued tests that it will do what we claim for it.

Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It doesn't rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts four times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish one-fourth as often, yet your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it. Use

The DIAMOND CIPHER

A Baseball Romance

By W. A. PHELON

(Copyright, 1912, by W. A. PHELON, Copyright in Canada and Great Britain.)

"Something wrong here," thought I to myself. Then I thought some more. Just now, there's a lot of trouble between this government and Japan, isn't there? And Jap spies are working overtime all through the country, aren't they? This yellow man, thinks Kelly, is pulling something that is full of nerve, but hadn't ought to come through. Mind you, boys, I have to dope this out fast, and while the fit the man is right with me.

"I walked through the cafe upstairs, with Mr. Yazimoto alongside me, giving me new bunk about how necessary it was to get some cipher or other off you, me pretending to give him close attention, but beginning to figure out that there would have to be a slipup and a new turn of the cards. Suddenly the door opened—just a few inches—and I saw a little white envelope. I picked it up, opened the door again, and looked out into Doyers street. Whoever threw the envelope had made a getaway in the crowd. The envelope was addressed to me, all right, and as I opened it Mr. Yazimoto edged up close to rubber.

"You will excuse me, Mr. Yazimoto," said I, "but this note is very personal—from a young lady. And I sheered off a yard or so, while the little man smiled and apologized. I took out a little square card, and all that was on the card was these words: "LET THEM GO."

"Ah, the poor girl," said I, quick, just like that—"ain't it a pity they get so stuck on a guy they can't let him alone?" And Mr. Yazimoto was passing me some stuff about it being no wonder the ladies loved me, but I'm not hearing him—I'm thinking. Then we went downstairs, and before we got to the cellar I had framed up the whole works, from start to finish, just as it came off.

"I don't know how we can ever repay you for your change of mind, Mr. Kelly," exclaimed Brockett, and the impulsive Solano burst out with profuse gratitude. "My father, Mr. Kelly," cried the Cuban, "is a rich man. Tell us what you think your kindness is worth, and he'll double the amount."

Mr. Kelly waved his hand, deprecatingly. "As far as that stuff is concerned, nix, nix," quoth the Italian. "I'm satisfied to know that you young fellows haven't anything against me for framing the trick in the first place. Some people would feel good and sore about it. As for any tank—why, the Jap has paid all the freight. Here's his ten thousand. Seems to me we ought to split it five ways—two thou to each of us."

"Couldn't accept it," negatived Brockett. "It wouldn't seem right to take it, Mr. Kelly."

"None of it for mine," Solano seconded. "Keep it all, Mr. Kelly—you are entitled to it."

"Entitled, not!" said the generous Mr. Kelly. "Look here, you two—don't be so dainty about money. Look at it this way: This Jap is an enemy. He was using his dirty money to do harm to you and to your government. We have his money now. It is prize money taken from the enemy, just the same as if it was a fleet, do you understand? Take it and use it to help along whatever errand you've been sent on—I'm not asking what it is. Here's two thou—twenty centuries—for each of you. Cart it away."

Solano laughed amusedly. "Mr. Kelly, your arguments are the best I have heard in many days. I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll take my share, and hold it in trust for Mr. Yazimoto. If he ever calls for it he can have it."

"Under those circumstances," said Brockett, "I will take the money. If I ever become friendly with Mr. Yazimoto, I will give it back to him."

"As for me," said Mr. Kelly, denoting out the sheaves of bills, "I am now a naturalized American citizen and a loyal one, even if I was born in Sicily. As a prize court, sitting on the division of money taken from a Japanese warship, I declare the same con-for you. There's four hushies—two guineas, a goose and a harp—upstairs, who'll go with you, and nobody will start anything with those babies, I can tell you straight. They'll see you wherever you want to be taken, and you keep 'em with you as long as you think you need 'em, see. And, when all these troubles are over, come down to Doyers street some day and spend a little time with Kelly."

CHAPTER XII.

The spoils of war having been carefully put away, and the escort of four gangsters notified of their duties, Brockett and Solano started on the devious journey that was to cover so large a portion of North America before it could be satisfactorily completed—a longer trip, in fact, than the youngsters had anticipated, and even more replete with excitement and adventure than they had expected. Kelly, frankly cordial and evidently wholly honest in his intentions, introduced them to the precious four who were to see them safely out of Manhattan. The gang leader's instructions to his lieutenants were short, simple and easily understood.

"These two 'inds," quoth Mr. Kelly, "are right people. The best ever, believe me, and I want you four to look out for them till they are over in Jersey. If anybody tries to get to them, it'll be a bunch of Japs. Keep cool, watch close, and anytime a slant-eyed monk tries to get gay, just trim him. If you have to use your guns, why use 'em—it will be all right, and there's somebody higher up than me that will see you don't get none the worst of it. Remember, now—keep healed for yellow men, and don't be nowise slow if you have to get some of 'em."

Brockett and Solano had quickly decided that the Christopher street ferry should take them back to the Jersey side, figuring out this plan of action on the theory that their tireless enemies would hardly expect them to double back upon their tracks. "In all probability," argued Solano, "they will be counting on our going either north, towards Albany, or east to-one small section of our route to fit the exigencies of the case."

"We will have to cut out a few of the turns and bends we had mapped out," said Brockett, "or the delay we have just been through may hold us back considerably. Once back on the Jersey side, we can hurry right along. We still have a fair amount of time ahead of us, but we can't waste many hours."

The escort provided by the friendly Kelly strolled along with the boys for a block or so, pointing out places of interest and showing every evidence of good humor. As the little group turned into Park Row, one of the escorting four whispered in Brockett's ear, briefly and admonishingly:

"You two fellows walk ahead—bout fifty feet or so. We'll come along back of you as if we didn't know you. If anybody's laying for you along here we can pretty near get 'em that way."

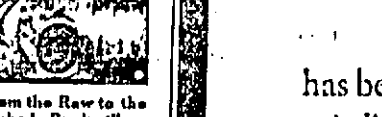

And, like a quartet of well-trained soldiers, the gangsters dropped back till perhaps twenty paces separated them from their charges. Brockett and Solano, willing to accept the judgment of the gang-youths in such affairs, walked along, gazing into the windows of the ancient pawnshops, scrutinizing the title of riffraff and human slotham that came obliquing to and fro, and in general conducting themselves after the fashion of verdant greens just seeing New York by air-light.

The huge, gloomy shadows of Brooklyn bridge loomed ahead, and the surge of mixed humanity was thicker and more diversified than ever, when half a dozen young men, rat-faced, weasel-eyed, slinking amid the darker places like wolves along the edge of the forest, came softly out from the blackness that surrounded the great pillars of the "L" road. One of them, a stocky fellow with a gray cap pulled well down upon his forehead, stumbled against Solano, and, regaining his balance with a quick spring of his nimble legs, caught the Cuban by the arm.

"Say, young feller, whatchu mean by shovin' people around, anyhow?"

"Can't you see where you are going?" Solano shook off the detaining hand, and Brockett closed up beside him. The pack of rat-faced young men seemed to spring up around them like ambushed Indians, and the trap was as neatly sprung as ever a savage planned an ambush. The next second there came the quick patter of feet from the rear; four more rat-faced, furtive-eyed young men had mingled with the attacking half-dozen, and the whole ten were exchanging amicable greetings.

"Just keep off these two guys, just let 'em be," explained one of the escorting four.

"Friends of yours, Casey?" queried the apparent leader of the newcomers.

"Friends of Kelly's, like. He told us to see that they got to any place they might choose to go."

"The deuce you say! All right, if youse ducks says so. Tell Kelly you see us, and we sent him our best regards."

"Sure thing, like. So long. See you later, maybe."

The recent assailants faded into the darkness of the "L" shadows as strangely as they came, and the quartet of protecting gangsters resumed the journey.

"Good thing we went with you fellows," exulted the chief of the protective squad. "Those gorillas would have fixed you sure."

"So I should judge," admitted Solano. "We would have given them some fight, at that, but six against two would have been a little too strong. Are they part of your own crowd?"

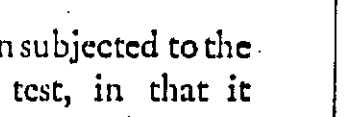

"Nix, not in a hundred. They're Five Points, do you see? And we are Eastmans. Right now, we're all good friends—best on earth. Kelly's an Eastman, and a topnotcher, too, but the Five Points all like him—honest they do—and they wouldn't do nothing to no pals of his, not for any money. Must have been the Japs Kelly tipped us off about—they must have seen this gang and fixed it with them to hold you up. In that case, the poor Japs gets double-crossed two times in the same place. It's a cinch those gorillas wouldn't take on nothing like that unless they got the kule in advance, and we know what Kelly did to the one that was fixing to have you sloughed a little while ago."

"Any chance for any more excitement?" asked Brockett, as the expedition passed the bridge entrance and then began a new tack that would lead them to the ferry.

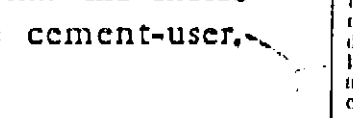

"The gangsters were uncertain. 'Not much show for anything with any gangs,' explained their leader, 'but if the Jap gets as wild as they seem to get you, there may be something doing. Pretty mean people, those Japs. They'll hang on forever in hopes of getting an even break with anyone they're after. Tell you what—Kelly didn't tell us to go any farther than the ferry, but we'll see you get safe to Jersey, anyhow. Might be some doing on the ferry, you know.' (To be Continued)

TODAY'S RIDDLE

WHAT IS THE HARDEST THING TO DEAL WITH?

(ANSWER)

AN OLD DECK OF

"Usin' Tiz Gramma?"

"Yes, Harold, It Makes Grand-ma's Feet Feel Just Like Yours, Free from Tiredness, Aches and Corns!"

"Your papa and mamma, your grandpa and your grandma all use TIZ, Harold. And you'll use it, too, when you get to be a man. It's the best foot powder ever put on, or got tried. That's why we use TIZ."

Most of us get old, feet first. The bunions get stale, more corns and painful. Come get under and more stubborn as the feet become more tender. At a time when all people need their feet most, they can use TIZ. Unless they use TIZ.

If you have never used TIZ before, your first use of it will bring back some of your childhood days. TIZ will make your feet feel young, strong and vigorous. They'll never be tender, never chafe or ache, never get blistered or swollen, and your corns, bunions and calluses will be no more. Nothing will do it for you but TIZ. Don't experiment with other things; other people have done that for you and they are all now using TIZ.

TIZ acts on a new principle—draws out all the poisonous excretions that make foot troubles.

Half Past Moving Time
BETTER BE UP AND DOING

"There is a time for all things," runs the old proverb, and just now we're in the middle of moving time. In hundreds of good apartments and houses the present occupants are letting go, and shortly newcomers will be moving in.

How to find the one of these vacancies which best suits a prospective tenant is the question of the hour.

The answer is Gazette "Flat for Rent" and "Room for Rent" advertisements—known as "Want" Ads.

As soon as a desirable vacancy occurs three out of four Janesville owners of property think of Gazette "Want" Ads.

A convenient list is thus accumulated for each Gazette reader's personal.

There are locations in all parts of the city and at all different prices of rental. If you are thinking of moving this spring you would do well to watch
